The above statement is in order to comply with the following WWFT (Wet ter voorkoming van witwassen en het financieren van terrorisme) regulations:

1. Article 10a, Paragraph 2, Sub A of the WWFT:
  - This article outlines certain exemptions from the obligations typically required under the WWFT. The WWFT is the Dutch law designed to prevent money laundering and terrorist financing.
2. Exemption from the Obligation to Register UBO(s):
  - UBO stands for "Ultimate Beneficial Owner." Under normal circumstances, companies are required to register their UBOs to ensure transparency about who ultimately owns or controls the company.
  - However, according to Article 10a, Paragraph 2, Sub A of the WWFT, certain entities are exempt from this requirement. One such exemption applies to entities that are fully (or indirectly fully) owned by a company listed on a recognized stock exchange.
3. Article 15a, Paragraph 1 of the Trade Register Act:
  - This article pertains to the obligation of companies to register their UBOs with the Trade Register, which is maintained by the Dutch Chamber of Commerce (KvK).
4. Listed and Operated on a Recognized Stock Exchange:
  - The exemption applies because the parent company is listed on a recognized stock exchange, in this case, the New York Stock Exchange (NYSE). Companies listed on recognized stock exchanges are subject to stringent reporting and transparency requirements, which is why they are exempt from additional UBO registration requirements.
