1. What kind of documents may the customs authorities require confirming the information filled out in a passenger declaration by an individual?

Depending on the nature of the declared information and the purpose of transporting goods across the customs border, the following information may be required:

1) documents confirming a person's identity, including that of a minor;

2) documents of an individual confirming the value of goods for personal use;

3) Documents confirming compliance with prohibitions and restrictions by individuals in accordance with the Customs Code of the Eurasian Economic Union if compliance with prohibitions and restrictions is subject to confirmation by these documents;

4) transportation (shipping) documents;

5) documents confirming compliance with import conditions with the exemption from customs duties and taxes (for example, documents confirming the relocation of a foreign individual to a permanent place of residence in the Republic of Armenia, or documents confirming the refugee or forcibly displaced status of a foreign individual, in accordance with the legislation of the Republic of Armenia);

6) a passenger customs declaration filled out when importing a vehicle into the territory of the Republic of Armenia that confirms the release of such vehicle for temporary stay in the territory of the Republic of Armenia in case of temporary import of the vehicle into the territory of the Republic of Armenia;

7) documents confirming the right of ownership, use, and/or disposal of a vehicle for personal use;

8) documents confirming the origin of cash funds and/or monetary instruments if these monetary funds exceed the amount equivalent to 100,000 US dollars at the current exchange rate as of the date of submission of the passenger customs declaration to the customs authority as of the day of declaring;

9) A power of attorney or another document confirming the authority of the person acting on behalf and by order of the declarant in cases established by legislation;

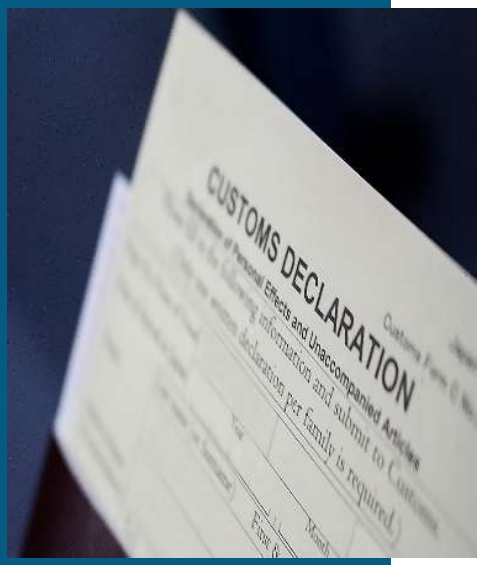

10) In case of re-importing such temporary exported vehicles from the territory of the Republic of Armenia, which during their stay outside the territory of the Republic of Armenia, because of the need, were subjected to such maintenance or repair operations during which the replacement of parts of vehicles subject to registration (record) with the relevant state authorized bodies took place, in accordance with the legislation of the Republic of Armenia, such documents must be submitted that will give a possibility to identify a vehicle or parts of such vehicle subject to declaration.

Attention

In cases where the specified documents do not contain the information confirming the information provided in the passenger customs declaration – it can be confirmed by other documents.

2. When declaring unaccompanied baggage, what additional documents may be required if an individual transports goods for personal use in unaccompanied baggage or in accompanied and unaccompanied baggage?

In case of transporting goods for personal use by an individual across the border of the Republic of Armenia in accompanied and unaccompanied baggage or only in unaccompanied baggage, during the customs declaration of goods for personal use imported into the territory of the Republic of Armenia in unaccompanied baggage, in addition to the documents required for declaration, a passenger declaration, submitted to the customs authority upon arriving in the Republic of Armenia, is submitted for goods for personal use not subject to declaration.

Attention

In the absence of a passenger declaration submitted at the time of arrival, the goods for personal use imported into the territory of the Republic of Armenia in unaccompanied baggage will be considered as goods for personal use exceeding the permissible amount for import without payment of customs duties and taxes and will be taxed unless the individual proves the contrary.

3. On the basis of what and how is the value of goods for personal use declared?

The value of goods for personal use is declared in the passenger customs declaration under customs declaration of goods for personal use on the basis of the value specified in receipts, invoices, tags and labels, or other documents confirming the purchase of such goods and containing information on the value of the goods for personal use, with the exception of goods for personal use sent via international postal items, in respect of which documents provided for by the acts of the Universal Postal Union and accompanying international postal items are used as the passenger customs declaration.

4. Which documents are submitted to confirm the value of goods for personal use?

To confirm the value of goods for personal use, an individual submits the original documents, on the basis of which the value of goods for personal use is declared, and in respect of goods for personal use delivered by a carrier – the original documents or their copies.

5. How is the value of goods for personal use sent via international postal items declared?

The value of goods for personal use sent via international postal items is declared in the documents provided for by the acts of the Universal Postal Union and accompanying such international postal items. Moreover, the declared value of an international postal item is considered the value of goods for personal use only if it exceeds the value of goods for personal use specified in the documents provided for by the acts of the Universal Postal Union.

6. Which costs are not included in the value of goods for personal use?

The value of goods for personal use does not include transportation and insurance costs.
